Re: Website Consulting

Dear Mr. Gill,

We would like to extend our sincere appreciation for your direction of our website. We had spent nearly 2 years and many thousands of dollars on a new website design and function. We had accomplished very basic design and were struggling with the functionality of our site. We had received many emails from discouraged customers and leaders of our company who were not impressed with our website. Because websites are so vital for representation and assisting our distributors throughout the world, we realized how much the website was actually costing us being with the wrong computer consulting firm. Once we contacted you, our site was transformed and the functionality improved dramatically within weeks.

Your direction has lead to a vastly enhanced website providing our customer base with dynamic imaging, massive additions in content and advanced technological options. We have received many appreciative comments regarding our "New and Improved" website since obtaining your services.

Although your knowledge and skill level are vital components of this success, we must comment on your work ethic as well. It is most important to us to have complete confidence our requests will be implemented with an eye for design and in a timely manner. We have found your actions are thorough and exceed our requests. You thoroughly research the options and convey them to us in an understandable and professional manner. We feel we are truly in control and know with certainty you will complete the project, but if we have any concerns, you are there to fix it!

We feel so happy and blessed to have found you. You are filled with the talent and Christian attributes we desire to assist us in fulfilling our purpose in His kingdom. Working with a leader filled with joy and integrity is the culmination of honoring and enhancing our God-given gifts through each other. It is very rewarding indeed!

With great appreciation,

Kimberly R. Money
